APRIL 2012

FROM THE PASTOR

Probably the most important question an individual can ask himself is this: "By what authority am I going to live my life?" Think about it. Every one of us lives under a combination of governing influences – authorities – we rely on to direct our lives from moment to moment.

What do I mean by "authority"? A good dictionary definition of "authority" is "the right to command and to enforce obedience." (The Reader's Digest Great Encyclopedic Dictionary, 1966, p. 97) The authorities in my life include such institutions as the government, my employer, my church organization, my family, etc. Of course, each of these authorities only has authority in a limited way, insomuch as I allow those authorities to govern in my life. (Of the alternative to allowing them to govern can be painful, but that's another subject.)

How do we relate to the idea of God being in authority? He never forces us to obey. In fact, if there is one thing that God reverences as much as His own holy name, it is the ability He has given us to make our own choices. He has created us with the capacity to choose right or wrong; ultimately to choose for Him or against Him. Jesus said, "All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth." (Matthew 28:18 NKJV) "All authority," and yet limited by His refusal to enforce His will on us. His is the authority of love. "The LORD has appeared of old to me saying: 'Yes, I have loved you with an everlasting love; Therefore with lovingkindness I have drawn you.'" (Jeremiah 31:3) Unlike the authority wielded by human institutions, enforced with threats and punishments, God's authority is based upon the appeal of love. He desires above all to redeem us from the wages of our sins, and to have us spend forever with Him in a universe governed by the authority of love. What a life that will be!
